He said every Southern State has passed from local option to State-wide prohibition, and that a notable exception of Louisiana, and he urged that Virginia, as she has always done in other things, take the lead and champion the fight for temperance.

Mr. Atkinson said that he and his associates, in the past few months, have looked into the countenances of 500,000 men in Virginia, and that the signs are for a triumph in the battle.

LEAGUE TO OPEN
SESSION TONIGHTAnti-Saloon Forces Arrive for Annual Convention of State Order.

Officers of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League met in the largest hall in the history of the league will be present when President Henry Pearce Atkins calls the annual convention to order in Broad street Methodist Church to-night.

The meeting will begin at 7:45, and the convention will come to a close on Thursday night.

Devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. S. C. Hatcher, D. D., after which the convention will be welcomed to Richmond by Mayor David Crockett Richardson. The response will be by Rev. E. T. Wellford, D. D.

The annual address of the president, Mr. H. P. Atkins, is scheduled to begin at 8:25. Mr. Atkins will give an account of the work of the league during the year.

A legislative committee will then present its report. It is supposed that little in the way of progress will come from the meeting, since there has been no meeting of the Legislature since the last meeting of the league.

However, there have been pledges from the usual State officers as to a program of the league as adopted last year.

TAFT AND PINCHOT
ON SAME PLATFORMThey Speak to Delegates at Convention of National Civic Federation.President Would Give Good
Trusts Chance and Cut
Out the Bad.

Washington, D. C., January 17.—President Taft and Gifford Pinchot to-day spoke from the same platform in addressing the National Civic Federation, now in session here to discuss problems of uniform state legislation.

Representatives of almost every branch of human activity met at the conference to talk over ways and means for bringing about uniformity of laws relating to child labor, marriage and divorce, pure food and pure drugs, conservation of natural resources and laws relating to negotiable instruments, bills of lading and other matters affecting the business and social life of the nation.

Serious attention was accorded the President throughout his speech, which was a careful presentation of the needs of uniformity upon the part of the States in laws looking to an amelioration of existing conditions.

In discussing the movement started by the Civic Federation for uniformity in State laws, President Taft said that it was the outgrowth of a demand on the part of good citizens to bring about better conditions in the social fabric.

President Taft said that there should be uniformity in judicial procedure, and he declared with emphasis that if anything in the system deserved attack it was the delay that could be secured by the wealthy under judicial proceedings, and he advocated some change in the form of Federal court procedure which could be taken as an example by the States. He wanted court procedure simplified along the lines of English procedure both in equity and criminal law.

Mr. Taft told of the movement for a uniform law relating to child labor, and cited the utterances of the Governor of Massachusetts in behalf of a Federal law regulating child labor, because the power of the Federal Government was greater than the power of the State.

Speaking on the subject of conservation, the President said that he thought the public which is now being done by the States in the conservation of resources even then by the Federal Government. Speaking of trusts, President Taft said:

I am inclined to think that it will be found wise after a time to recognize these greater organizations, concentrations of wealth and plant and capital that do a country-wide business, going into every State, whose business is almost wholly interstate, to recognize them as instrumentalities of interstate commerce, and to incorporate them in order that we may get them more directly under the control of the national government.

I admit there is ground for dispute, and I have only recommended this as something that I look forward to in the future as a means of saving to the public which is valuable, and there is a great deal that is valuable in those trusts, and eliminating permanently that which is vicious and contrary to public policy. But you are not Congress, and I did not come here to convince you on that subject.

Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, said that subjects such as forest preservation had been advocated by Americans for more than a hundred years, but that the control of water-power monopoly in the common interest of the younger than the present century.

All of them to-day," he said, "are in the valley of decision. We have come at last to the point of action, and we must either go forward or fall back."

In his judgment, he said, the forest situation offers a field for uniform action and for co-operation between the States themselves and between them and the nation.

In addition to President Taft's speech at the morning session, Seth Low, president of the federation, and Judge Alton B. Parker, temporary chairman of the conference, also spoke.

Governor Willson, of Kentucky, secretary of the "House of Governors," preceded Judge Parker in his speech as temporary chairman.

Committees of the colored Anti-Tuberculosis League will meet at 8 o'clock to-night, to discuss the subject of tuberculosis, which is the most deadly of diseases, and is mapped out. The meeting will be held in the Southern Aid Insurance Company building, 109 South Main street, and they will be instructed to carry on the fight as outlined by the State Board of Health.

Big Contract for Coal Cars. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., January 17.—It was announced by the Norfolk and Western Railroad that the street car work will begin within the next few days in the company's Roanoke shops on an order of 1,500 steel coal hoppers.

The work is being done the payroll will be $1,000,000 a month.

Grocers Lose Case. Determining the technical question of jurisdiction, the Supreme Court today dismissed the suit brought by the Mecon Grocery Company and other wholesalers in groceries in Georgia for an injunction to restrain railroads in the Southeastern Freight Association from putting into effect a law that would require the railroads to pay for the cost of the freight on fresh meats, grain products, hay and packing house products.

The suit was filed five days before the railroad was to go into effect. The railroads, including practically all in the association, pleaded that the suit was not within the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court in which it was filed. The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

BASEBALL RULES
TO BE SIMPLIFIEDJoint Committee Will Be Ready for Suggestions at Meeting
Next Week.

New York, January 17.—When the joint rules committee of the National and American Leagues meets at Pittsburgh next Monday it is expected that most of the season will be taken up in simplifying the playing rules in the matter of brevity and directness. Some of the rules as they now read are puzzling. Inasmuch as the rules are made not only for the National and American Leagues and the minor leagues, but for the amateur players as well, they should be so framed as to be plain and easy to understand.

The umpires of the big leagues, as well as the rules committee of the Baseball Writers' Association, have been invited to meet the rules committee and offer any ideas they may have tending to help along the cause of simplification. The committee will also consider suggestions from followers of the game.

The composition of the committee will go over the rules as follows: American League—Charles Comiskey, Chicago; Charles Somers, Cleveland; Tom C. Noyes, Washington. It is likely that the National League will have a similar committee.

Nothing Radical Expected. While there is little chance that the committee will make any radical changes in the playing rules, a number of suggestions will be offered for their consideration. The question of increasing the number of balls in play is one of the most important. George Tebeau, owner of the Kansas City club, and an old ball player, suggests that the
